Welcome to The Articulate Club

Have you ever thought to yourself...

"I know what I want to say, but the words just will not come out the way I want?"

Or maybe you have watched someone speak with confidence and wondered how they make it look so effortless.

The truth is, great communicators are not born that way. Like every other skill, communication can be learned and improved with consistent practice. That is why I created The Articulate Club.

It all starts with one belief:

"Your voice is more powerful than you think."

Your voice has the power to inspire, influence, connect, encourage, teach, and open doors. The challenge is that many of us have never intentionally developed the skill of using it well. This community is our opportunity to change that.

4,000

members choosing to become more intentional about the way they communicate. Every week, we come together to learn, practice, encourage one another, and grow, one conversation at a time.

● WE ARE LEARNING TOGETHER

I am not here because I have mastered communication. I am here because I am committed to becoming a better communicator, just like you. As I learn, I will share what I am learning. As we practice, we will improve together. As we make mistakes, we will learn from them together.

This is not about becoming perfect. It is about becoming better than we were yesterday.

The weekly schedule in this guide is the roadmap we will follow each week. Every activity is designed to help us become more confident, more articulate, and more comfortable using our voices.

So, welcome to The Articulate Club. I am grateful you are here, and I cannot wait to see how much we will grow together, because your voice is more powerful than you think.

Why I Chose the Name “The Articulate Club”

When I was thinking about what to call this community, I wanted a name that reflected what we are all working towards.

Not perfection.

Not having the biggest vocabulary.

Not sounding like someone else.

Simply becoming people who can express our thoughts and ideas clearly and confidently.

That is what it means to be articulate.

And that is why I chose the name The Articulate Club.

Every activity, every challenge, and every conversation is designed to help us become a little more articulate than we were yesterday.

And we will get there together.

Our Weekly Journey

Every activity in this guide has been intentionally arranged in a particular order. This is not just a random list of things to do.

The goal is not simply to complete activities. The goal is to take you through a weekly learning journey, one that gradually builds your communication skills through observation, thinking, learning, speaking, feedback, live coaching, and reflection.

By the end of each week, you will have learned from great communicators, expanded your thinking, built your vocabulary, practiced speaking out loud, received real guidance, connected with our community, and reflected on how far you have come.

Then the cycle begins again, layering new skills on top of what you have already built.

● A QUICKNOTE

Since The Articulate Club is all about becoming more confident communicators, we encourage members to use voice notes whenever they are sharing an experience, answering a discussion prompt, introducing themselves, or joining a conversation.

Of course, if you are asking a simple question or need clarification, typing is perfectly fine.

The more we use our voices, the more comfortable and confident we become.

It is time to begin.

MONDAY

Shadow Monday

Learn from Great Communicators TELEGRAM

What you will need: Telegram, a notebook, and about fifteen to twenty minutes.

🎯 OBJECTIVE

To grow as a communicator, it helps enormously to watch and shadow someone who is already great at it.

⚡ THE ACTIVITY

Each Monday, I will share a short video from a speaker for us to learn from together. Watch the first one to two minutes closely, then shadow them. Shadowing means repeating each sentence right after the speaker while following their body language, facial expressions, pauses, gestures, pacing, and confidence. This is the heart of the exercise, so please do not skip it, even if it feels a little unusual at first. You are not trying to imitate their voice or their accent. The goal is simply to experience good communication habits in your own body, so you understand what confident communication actually feels like.

☑️ YOUR ASSIGNMENT

Record a voice note and share it on Telegram, including:

- ☑️ One communication skill you observed in the speaker, such as pausing, eye contact, storytelling, or vocal variety
- ☑️ Why you think that skill made the speaker effective
- ☑️ One communication skill you want to intentionally practice in your own speaking this week

🔦 WHY THIS DAY

Before you can become a better communicator, it helps to first watch and learn from people who already communicate well. Every great communicator has habits worth borrowing. Just remember, we are not copying the speaker. We are copying the skill.

★ TIP

Do not worry about sounding perfect. This is about awareness, not performance.

TUESDAY

Reading Tuesday

Think Like a Good Communicator

 TELEGRAM

What you will need: Telegram, a notebook, and about fifteen to twenty minutes.

🎯 OBJECTIVE

Great communicators are great thinkers first, and Tuesday is where we train that muscle.

⚡ THE ACTIVITY

Each Tuesday, I will share a short passage. It might be about communication, mindset, leadership, or simply something that makes you think a little differently. Read it inwardly first, slowly and without rushing, the way you would read something you actually wanted to understand, not just finish. Once you have a good grasp of it, read it aloud, slowly and clearly, paying attention to your pronunciation, your pacing, and the expression you bring to each sentence. Ask yourself what the writer is really trying to say, and whether you agree. This is not a comprehension test. It is practice in slowing down, thinking clearly, and speaking what you read, which every good communicator does before they ever open their mouth.

☑️ YOUR ASSIGNMENT

On Telegram, record one voice note where you:

- ☑️ Read the passage aloud from beginning to end. As you read, pay attention to your pronunciation, pacing, and expression
- ☑️ When you finish reading, take a brief three-second pause, then summarize the passage in your own words

💡 WHY THIS DAY

You cannot say what you do not understand. Reading sharpens your thinking, and clear thinking is what makes clear speaking possible.

★ TIP

If a sentence confuses you, read it twice before moving on. That pause is exactly the kind of thinking we are building.

WEDNESDAY

Word Power Wednesday

Build Your Vocabulary TELEGRAM

What you will need: Telegram, a notebook, and about fifteen to twenty minutes.

🎯 OBJECTIVE

The more words you have, the easier it becomes to say exactly what you mean.

⚡ THE ACTIVITY

Each Wednesday, I will share three vocabulary words and two idioms. Some may be familiar, others brand new, and either way is perfectly fine. Your task is to look up the meaning of each one yourself, the way you would if you came across them while reading on your own. Think of this less like a vocabulary quiz and more like adding new tools to a toolbox you will reach for again and again, in conversations, in your content, and in everyday life.

☑️ YOUR ASSIGNMENT

On Telegram, complete the following:

- ☑️ Look up the meaning of each vocabulary word and idiom
- ☑️ Write the meaning of each one in your own words
- ☑️ Record a voice note using all three vocabulary words in sentences and both idioms in appropriate contexts

💡 WHY THIS DAY

By now you have watched, and you have read. Wednesday gives you the raw material, the actual words, you will need to express what you are thinking with more precision and confidence.

★ TIP

Try using one new word in a real conversation this week. That is when it truly becomes yours.

THURSDAY

One Minute Thursday

Put Everything Into Practice TELEGRAM

What you will need: Telegram, a notebook, and about fifteen to twenty minutes.

🎯 OBJECTIVE

Thursday is about learning to speak on the spot, with barely a moment to prepare and no script to lean on.

⚡ THE ACTIVITY

Each Thursday, I will share a speaking prompt. Give yourself no more than one minute to prepare, just enough to gather your thoughts, not enough to write a script. Then record a voice note, no longer than one minute, and speak naturally. Do not aim for perfect, aim for real. If you stumble over a word or pause to think, that is not a mistake. That is simply what speaking sounds like when it is not rehearsed.

☑️ YOUR ASSIGNMENT

On Telegram, share the following:

- ☑️ Your one minute voice note, recorded and shared in the group
- ☑️ If you can, try weaving in something you learned this week, a word, a skill, anything at all

🕯️ WHY THIS DAY

You have observed, read, and built your vocabulary. Now it is time to actually use your voice. This is where everything you have absorbed all week finally becomes practice.

★ TIP

If your heart races before you hit record, that is completely normal. Every confident speaker you admire once felt that same flutter.

FRIDAY

Feedback Friday

Learn and Improve

TELEGRAM

What you will need: Telegram, a notebook, and about fifteen to twenty minutes.

🎯 OBJECTIVE

Feedback is how practice turns into real progress.

⚡ THE ACTIVITY

Every Friday, I will go through the week's assignments and share the common communication strengths, mistakes, and patterns I noticed along the way. Rather than reviewing individual submissions one by one, I will walk through general observations, practical tips, and corrections that everyone can learn from, the kind of feedback that helps you whether or not you submitted anything that week. This way, every member benefits from the feedback, and no one is left feeling overlooked.

☑️ YOUR ASSIGNMENT

On Telegram:

- ☑️ Read or listen through Friday's feedback
- ☑️ Pick one piece of feedback and write down how you will apply it next week

💡 WHY THIS DAY

You spoke on Thursday, and now it is time to learn from it. Without feedback, practice is just repetition. With feedback, it becomes growth.

★ TIP

The feedback is never personal. It is simply a mirror, showing you exactly where to focus next.

SATURDAY

Speak Live Saturday

Learn Together

TELEGRAM LIVE

What you will need: Telegram, a notebook, and about one hour and thirty minutes.

🎯 OBJECTIVE

Some of the best growth happens when we learn out loud, together.

⚡ THE ACTIVITY

Every Saturday, I will host a live session on Telegram, and this is where the community really comes alive. Some weeks we dig into a specific communication lesson. Other weeks it is live speaking practice, an open question and answer session, a workshop, or simply a group conversation. You do not need to prepare anything beforehand. Just show up, listen, and if you feel ready, join in.

☑️ YOUR ASSIGNMENT

This week:

- ☑️ Attend the live session if you are able to make it
- ☑️ If you cannot make it live, catch the replay and note one thing you want to try this week

💡 WHY THIS DAY

You have learned, read, built vocabulary, spoken, and received feedback. Saturday is where we bring it all together, in real time, as a community.

★ TIP

You do not have to speak to benefit from this session. Listening closely to others is its own kind of practice.

SUNDAY

Reflection Sunday

Reflect and Grow WHATSAPP GROUP

What you will need: WhatsApp, a notebook, and about fifteen to twenty minutes.

🎯 OBJECTIVE

Before we begin another week, we pause to notice how far we have come.

⚡ THE ACTIVITY

The WhatsApp group opens every Sunday, and this day looks a little different from the rest. There is no new lesson to learn or skill to practice. Instead, take a few quiet moments to think back over your week: what you learned, what you are proud of even if it feels small, and what you want to do differently next week. Then come into the group and share your thoughts. Encourage someone else while you are there. Celebrate a win, yours or someone else's.

☑️ YOUR ASSIGNMENT

In the WhatsApp group:

- ☑️ Share your reflection from this week

🔦 WHY THIS DAY

Real growth is not just about doing more. It is about noticing what you have done and giving yourself credit for it. Sunday is your pause before the cycle begins again.

★ TIP

Progress in communication is rarely loud. It is quiet, steady, and it adds up. Celebrate it anyway.

YOU ARE ALREADY ONE OF US

Welcome to The Articulate Club

Whether you have just discovered The Articulate Club or you have already been learning with us, I am so glad you are here.

I hope this guide has given you a clear picture of what our community is all about and the journey we take together each week.

Remember, communication is not about being perfect. It is about becoming a little better every day.

Thank you for being part of this community.

I cannot wait to grow with you.
